WE NOMINATE

Francis Adams Comstock, teacher, architect and artist, who in the past several weeks has been attracting mounting attention for his conception of a home that could well become the prototype for thousands of homes of the future—from "Suburban Princeton" to wherever building-lots might retain a semblance of open space. The 64-year old Princetonian's most recent design, ground for which was broken in mid-March in Hamilton Township, claims two distinctions: it will be built almost entirely of concrete and plaster and it will be constructed on a one-story 115-degree arc (nearly 1/3 of a circle), that can be shortened or lengthened along the circle to meet individual needs for size.

In developing this structure, the first entry from the East in a nationwide home-building contest sponsored by the concrete and cement industry, Comstock, Associate Director of Princeton University's School of Architecture and a Princetonian for the past 33 years, accepted the challenge of working with cement, which in this country has had but limited utilitarian use in the residential field. Comstock, together with his cooperating contractor, also faced three stringent requirements imposed by the contest. The exterior wall area must be at least 51 per cent concrete, its cost must not exceed $20,000, and it must be ready for September showing.

Disregarding the dictates of convention, as he's done in designing dozens of homes along the Atlantic Coast, Comstock brought costs down by his imaginative use of pre-cast unit construction, including a roof fashioned of pre-cast accordion-pleated concrete slabs, a concrete canopy as a shading device, and even a pre-cast flagstone patio. America's growing concern for indoor-outdoor living, which has become a hobby in suburbia, finds expression in "the Comstock arc". For instance, a curving hall extends along the inner arc, with four sliding glass doors opening directly onto the patio and a circular swimming pool, the latter an eye-stopping feature not in basic construction costs.

While the New Jersey-born Comstock has devoted years to evolving combinations of beauty, efficiency and economy for home-builders, it is as a teacher and administrator that he is best known in the profession of architecture. He is the first to admit that his "greatest pride and pleasure" stem from following the careers of the young architects with whom he has worked since abandoning full-time private practice to join the Princeton Faculty in 1928. On the other hand, architects scattered throughout the United States recall that they were introduced by Comstock to the relationships existing between the visual arts and the philosophy of dominant cultures.

An ensign on World War I transports, and a Navy captain in World War II, Comstock has made hundreds of lithographs and drawings of American and English scenes and has completed what is regarded as the definitive study of the architecture of the Cotswold Hills in England. Possessing boundless energy, and a summer-time commuter between Nassau Street and Newport, R.I., he is a past chairman of the Borough of Princeton's Building Board of Appeals and a former member of the Township's Zoning Board. At the moment, when time permits, he is working on a European guide-book designed for "senior citizens traveling the Continent."

For constantly seeking to strengthen "the ancient definition of good architecture: to build well, to work well, and to look well"; for his contributions to the development of an outstanding School of Architecture; for his willingness to experiment in an age that is all too willing to yield to the demands of conformity; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

BLIGHT?

Question Before Board. The question of urban renewal, once as rousing an issue as consolidation and still a matter of serious concern to the Princeton community, will come before the public once again Tuesday night when the Borough Planning Board meets at 8 in the Engineering Building on Witherspoon Street to consider the status of a two-block rea north of Nassau Street.

The question: "Is the area, bounded by Witherspoon, John, Hulfish and Green a 'blighted area' and therefore subject to urban renewal?" The area must be classified as blighted before the Borough can receive Federal funds for urban renewal.

In December, 1958, Borough Council passed a resolution in which it did declare the area "blighted." Following the passage of this resolution, a group of residents of the area—Burnett Griggs, Flory Toto, Robert Higgins and Charles Sperling—filed suit against the Borough. Last July, the state Supreme Court unanimously decided in their favor and ruled that the Council's "blight" action of December, 1958, be set aside.

The Court based its ruling on a conflict of interest. The "blight" decision was invalid, said the Court, because two Princeton University professors on Borough Council supported the resolution. (The two were Richard A. Lester and Alfred E. Sorenson.) The University stood to gain indirectly by urban renewal, said the court, because of its controlling interest in Princeton Municipal Improvement, Inc., which owns property in the area.

THE LAND IN QUESTION: When the Borough Planning Board meets on Tuesday night, it will hear all sides of the question and then decide whether the area on the map above falls under the definition of "blight." A designation of "blight" is necessary before Federal funds can be granted for urban renewal.

Two Others Abstained. At the time of the Borough Council resolution, two employees of the University, Councilmen Dan D. Coyle, and Richard Colmen, abstained from voting because of the University-P.M.I. relationship. The two professors, however, claimed academic freedom from the conflict - of - interest clause, and cast their votes in favor of the "blight" resolution.

The Supreme Court rendered its decision in July. At that time, many observers felt the decision had killed off urban renewal completely, but as it turned out, the issue was only dormant. With the election of a new council and two new councilmen—Ellwood P. Godfrey and Angus A. Austen—who have no connection with the University, the situation has changed. No longer does Council have a majority of members with University affiliations.

The question of urban renewal has therefore, been raised anew by a new Council and the hearing scheduled for next Tuesday.

Problem Is Five Years Old. The question of urban renewal first exploded in the Princeton community in the summer of 1958 when Borough Council and the Princeton Housing Authority began public discussions on renewal and its complement, public housing. The two were linked because Federal law requires that displaced families be re-located before urban renewal funds can be granted, and the Princeton Housing Authority was charged with the relocation, presumably in new public housing.

However, aroused residents of the area protested that they did not want to move into public housing. They were home owners, or long-term renters, and they felt that the area was a home area, and not a slum or a blight on the community. In addition, they pointed out that many Negroes in Princeton—at least, in that area—earned too much to be eligible for public housing, and had no place else to go in the Princeton community.

In the beginning, in 1958, the Borough envisioned an urban renewal area which would extend south all the way to Leigh Avenue. Now, the area stops at Green Street, and it is thought possible that the area may be restricted farther by eliminating from "blight" consideration the houses that front on Green.

About this time, a group called the Witherspoon - John Street Citizens Committee was formed to protest urban renewal and public housing and to keep residents informed on developments. This committee is still in existence, and although it has not held full-scale meetings in recent months, it has appointed an executive committee which meets frequently and distributes information to residents of the area.

Moore Is Active. The chairman of this group and one of its founders, is Bryan Moore, lawyer and spokesman for residents of the area in the hearings held two years ago. In 1959, Mr. Moore was appointed to the Borough Planning Board by Mayor Raymond F. Male, and as a Planning Board member he will not, of course, appear Tuesday night as a spokesman for the Witherspoon John residents.

Other members of the executive committee are James Floyd, Mrs. Sherman Bates, George Holmes, William Brooks, Albert Hinds and Mrs. Harry Christian.

These Princeton citizens are still firmly opposed to having their part of the world designated as "blighted" and they feel, as they did in 1958, that urban renewal is a means for moving the Negro population out of town. "This is not an open town a spokesman has said, "and there is no place else for us to go."

On the other hand, P.M.I., owner of the houses on Jackson Street, has said through its president, Fred M. Blaicher, that it will have to dispose of the Jackson Street houses because it cannot rehabilitate them economically. Many residents of Witherspoon-

Ten Years Ago In Princeton

TOWN TOPICS: April 5, 1951: The Princeton Symphony Orchestra was in rehearsal prior to giving its first performance, scheduled for April 26 in McCarter Theatre. . . . Nicholas Harsanyi was named conductor, while the board of directors included Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Robert Casadesus, Dr. Albert Einstein, Mrs. C. Reinhold Noyes, Harold Hedgpeth and T. R. Cronk.

The Borough tax rate was announced as $4.55, up 13 cents, and the Township's as $4.36, up 43 cents. . . . plans were announced for a public meeting at the Nassau Tavern to air "Operation Nassau" policies and the part it should play in determining exterior color and design in the business section. . . . in charge of arrangements were Mrs. Thorn Lord, president of the Business Association; John A. Archer, a director of "Operation Nassau"; and Benjamin Kahn, president of The Eagles.

The First National Bank gave side-walk watchers a six-hour show when it removed two sections of a large plate glass window and raised a thirteen, six-by-ten-foot steel cabinet into the building from Witherspoon Street. . . . the Borough found it impossible to serve Township residents in the Public Library and announced a $3 non-resident fee . . . the Princeton Chapter of the American Cancer Society launched a fund-raising drive under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. James C. Sayen and Robert G. McAllen.

The Vassar Club was sponsoring the Blue Hill Troupe at McCarter Theatre in "Trial by Jury" and "The Pirates of Penzance" . . . Gary Cooper was at The Playhouse in "You're in the Navy Now" renamed because the Navy thought the original title, "U.S.S. Teakettle," undignified. . . . and the Garden was offering a glimpse of the 1960's by showing "The Flying Missile" in which Glenn Ford battled to have U.S. submarines equipped with platforms for launching guided missiles.

In sports, Irwin Weiss was preparing to put his track team's winning streak of 23 straight dual meet victories on the line as the 1951 season began. . . . at Exeter, Bruce and Robert Dennen, Country Day School alumni, were named co-captains of the hockey team. . . . Princeton University won national individual championships in wrestling (Brad Glass), fencing (Chan Johnson), swimming (Bob Brawner) to rank as the only college in the US.. with such a trio of titles to its credit.

The YMCA announced a Saturday morning parade down Nassau Street to mark its Indian Guide Pow-Wow. . . . on the birth list at Princeton Hospital were sons to Mr. and Mrs. Felix A. Perone, 10 Harris Road; Mr. and Mrs. John McKee, 43 South Stanworth; Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Lappan, 201 Moore Street; daughters to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Hall, 17 South Stanworth; Mr. and Mrs. Garfield A. Pierson, Washington Road. . . . the real estate boom had not yet begun in Princeton and a four-bedroom house on a large lot in the western section of town was advertised for $38,000.

John are reconciled to the loss of these houses because they realize, that if P.M.I. says it is not economically feasible to rehabilitate them, they will eventually go anyway.

Demolition of these houses would make way for an Avalon-Wiggins Street connecting road which would probably pass behind—that is, south—of the First Baptist Church. The fate of this church and its property was the cause for considerable alarm in urban renewal hearings of two and three years ago.

To meet the state definitions of "blight," an area must have a general run of dwellings which are substandard, unsafe, dilapidated or without air, light or space; abandoned buildings, either residential or industrial; unimproved vacant land which has been in this condition for ten years and which is not likely to be developed by private capital; areas which are detrimental to the health, safety, morals or welfare of the community and "unproductive condition" of land potentially useful and valuable for contributing to the public welfare.

"We have to fight," says a Witherspoon-John spokesman, "but not to the extent we had to fight before."

ROUND-UP

March was wet, figures kept by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association show, the total precipitation of 5.86 inches being two inches above normal. . . it rained on better than a third of the days in the month, 12 of 31 to be exact, but contrary to the March of other recent years, virtually no snow fell.

Temperature swings of 50 degrees are currently a part of the picture . . . the high for the year (75) was recorded Tuesday, March 28, and three days later (opening day for the Princeton baseball team), a low of 23 was recorded. . . . top reading for Easter Sunday was a chill, wind-blown 40.

The cargo of a truck proceeding along Stockton Street last week was on fire without the driver's knowledge. . . . Borough Patrolman Michael Carnevale spotted a carton of paper ablaze, halted the truck and took care of matters with an extinguisher.

A two-year old girl was injured Tuesday morning when she was struck by a car after chasing a ball into the street near her Stanley Avenue home. . . . she is Barbara Soda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Soda, and the driver of the car was Mrs. Helen M. Black, 45 Stanley. . . . Mrs. Black drove the child to the hospital, where she was admitted with contusions and abrasions of the face and a mild concussion.

In other accidents, Ernest H. Smith, 2 Dickinson Street, and Raymond S. Agar, 387 Mount Lucas Road, were uninjured after their cars left the road. . . . Mr. Smith glanced off a tree on William Street Friday morning at 1 o'clock and traveled about 100 feet before his car came to a stop. . . . Mr. Agar stuck a bank on the east side of Mount Lucas, crossed the road and overturned Saturday night at 10:15.

Rain and cold weather Saturday postponed the Lions Club Easter Egg Hunt. . . . the annual event will be held this Saturday at 10 at the high school grounds and rather than have children hunt eggs two weeks after Easter, should the weather again interfere, the Lions have announced that the program will take place this Saturday, rain or shine.

The 1961 trout season will open Saturday at 8 a.m., with public streams in the state stocked with 221,000 of the brook, brown and rainbow variety. . . . most of these are eight to ten inches in length, but there are a couple of thousand of what hatchery officials refer to as "block-busters". . . . these are 21-inch breeder trout, some of which have been liberated with each load taken to the streams during past weeks.

Nutshell review by an eighth-grade boy of a dance recital given by leotard-clad members of the opposite sex: "I don't know which I liked better—listening to the music or watching those girls." A year or so from now, the question will be fully resolved.

PERSON TO PERSON

We heard a discussion about whether man has ever produced any art, design, or object equal at the beauty of designs and scenes produced by nature, and an acquaintance told an appropriate short story which he obtained from Sunshine Magazine. Here is the gist of it: "There is a small church nestled in the hills of Ireland, with exquisite leaded glass windows on all sides, and they are beautiful to behold. Only one window is of clear glass, so that you may see outside. From it you look upon a breathtaking panorama. In the sloping valley you see a deep-blue mirroring lake encased in brown and green. It is difficult to tell where the lake leaves off and the trees begin. Climbing behind and with the trees are endless ranges of purple hills. It is a harmony of serenity: who can write its description? Under that clear window is this inscription: "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth His handiwork." Sky, lake, hills, trees and valley . . . and man hopes to compete?

Well, thank heavens we don't have to compete with anything like that, but when it comes to competition with man, believe us, we strive to be first in serving your complete satisfaction as well as your pocketbook. May we demonstrate to you in person? Please?

DAWN ON EASTER: About a hundred quiet, reverent worshippers gathered in the still, clear dawn of Easter Sunday to sing the traditional hymns and listen to the traditional story of the resurrection and the life. The dawn service was held in Princeton Battlefield Park on Mercer Road under the sponsorship of the Princeton Church Youth Council. George Gallup, Jr., was the speaker. CONSOLIDATION AGAIN

Is It Planning Issue? The question of whether or not possibla consolidation of Princeton Borough and Township should ba considered in the Borough's Master Plan was brought before the Borough Planning Board at its Tuesday meeting by Borough Mayor Raymond F. Male.

Mayor Male brought up the subject during a discussion of the proposed Master Plan in which it was stated that the combined population of the Borough and Township is expected to reach 28,270 by 1970 and that the majority of new residents coming into the Borough are expected to be over 40 years of age. "This means something to us in terms of the kind of housing needed," Mayor Male said. "Older people need the ease and convenience of apartments. In view of the fact that consolidation is under discussion, shouldn't we take the Township plans for housing into consideration?"

F. Dodd McHugh, Borough planning consultant, replied that the proposed Master Plan drawn up by his concern covered the entire area in terms of economic outlook. However, he said, the Township's plans for housing did not coma within the scope of a Master Plan for the Borough.

Mayor Male then turned to Martin L. Beck, Borough Planning Board chairman, and asked, "In view of the present discussions with the Township, shouldn't we ask Mr. McHugh to find out whether the Borough's Master Plan will coordinate with Township plans?" Mr. Beck replied that the Borough Planning Board was already working closely with the Township Planning Board in this area and would continue to do so.

Subcommittee Reports. The consolidation discussion came during preliminary reports on the Master Plan presented by two of the four subcommittees of the Planning Board. Those reporting were Edward G. Hofgesang and William H. Walker, who studied the sections on population, employment and economy, and Webster Dodge and Harry W. Hazard, who studied the sections on housing, community facilities and redevelopment.

Mr. Hofgesang said that his committee "didn't taka any violent exceptions" to any points in the sections which it studied. "Generally speaking," he said, "our committee felt that the plan did meet the housing demands of the people in the area, took tax revenues into consideration and kept the community atmosphere."

Mr. Dodge, however, questioned whether or not the housing demands should be met. "I'm still worried that we're getting too much density," he said. "I'm still not sure that we should meet all thesa demands."

Mr. Walker asked Mr. McHugh if he could make an estimate of the potential density of population in the Borough under present zoning. Mr. McHugh replied that the present B-1 zone, which provides for apartments over businesses, could have a potential density of approximately 20 percent more people than the multiple housing zone provided in the proposed Master Plan.

Renewal Charts Questioned. Mr. Dodge also questioned the inclusion of two charts showing possible future community renewal projects, a suggested time schedule, and financing arrangements. "My committee does not approve of these charts," he said, explaining that he felt the charts were open to misinterpretation. He was supported by Mr. Beck, who said he felt that discussion of community renewal projects should be more general.

Other points included a request from Planning Board member Bryan V. Moore, the delegate from the Board of Education, that plans for a proposed Quarry - McLean Street playground be changed so as not to interfere with houses, apartments and offices in the vicinity; a suggestion that plans for future water supply and sewage systems be included, and a query as to whether the 1960 census figures should be considered. In response to the last point, Mr. McHugh said that complete figures and interpretations from the 1960 census will not be available for at least a year and a half.

Next steps in consideration of the Borough's Master Plan will be appointment of a Citizens' Advisory Committee, due within a couple of weeks, and reports from the other two subcommittees. These are a committee headed by Mr. Beck and Dr. John F. Sly, which is studying the sections on land use and general development plan, and one headed by Charles R. Erdman, Jr., and John B. Redding, Jr., which is studying circulation and overall traffic plan.

Next meeting of the Planning Board is scheduled for Tuesday, May 2, at 8 p.m. at the Engineering Building, 102 Witherspoon Street.

CONSULTANT NAMED

To Planning Board. The firm of Jack M. Kendree, Philadelphia, has been appointed consultant to the Township Planning Board. Township Committee appointed the firm officially Monday night following a recommendation from a special planning board sub-committee which has been investigating several planning firms.

The duties of the firm will be to review and bring up to date the Master Plan completed two years ago by Isadore Candeub Associates. In the course of this review, the Kendree firm will work on the draft ordinance for multiple housing, review the sidewalk master plan, particularly in the light of capital expenditures, ponder the problems of sewers and pollution presented by the Rocky Hill disease that underlies the Township, review the light industry possibilities in the municipality and study the problems of extending the Township's business zone and providing "open space."

It is the expectation of Township Committee that these assignments can be completed by June 30, 1961.

After July 1, the firm will work with the Planning Board on a retainer basis. As illustrations of the kind of help which the firm can give in this capacity, Committeeman John S. Mount mentioned such recent and complex planning problems as the proposed Theological Seminary housing and the University's junior faculty housing.

"If the Planning Board had had a professional consultant at the time these projects were proposed," commented Mr. Mount, "the time and effort expended would have been greatly reduced."

As examples of future problems, Mr. Mount mentioned public housing, standards for paving widths and rights of way and the expansion of public buildings.

In its 1961 budget, Committee set aside $7400 for a planning consultant. The Kendree fee is about $125 a day.

Committee also closed the White Horse Tavern, 9 Birch Avenue, after Felix Cenerino, the owner, pleaded guilty to a violation of the state's alcoholic beverage code. The Tavern will be closed for 15 days, less five days because of Mr. Cenerino's guilty plea. Effective dates are from 12:01 A.M. April 5 to midnight April 14.

The Tavern had been charged with selling, at 11:55 p.m. on February 18, a bottle of whisky for off-premises consumption. The legal closing hour for the sale of packaged goods on weekdays is 10 p.m.

In additional business, Committee granted to the alumni association of Princeton Country Day School permission to hold a raffle at the school on May 13.

A letter from the Mercer County Board of Taxation was read in which the Board announced that it had set 50 percent as the ratio of tax valuation for 1962, apparently because Trenton and Hamilton Township, the two largest municipalities in the County, use the 50 percent ratio. Township Committee had made a formal request to the Board recommending the 100 percent valuation which the Township uses.

FUNNIN D. SUN

Recreation was on virtually everyone's mind as thoughts turned to the golf links, the beach and warmer days. But the Man was inclined to be something of a tease.

Easter weekend was good for little outdoor activity, and temperatures for the next few days are also scheduled to average below normal. Rain's in sight for Thursday or Friday, along with generally cool days. The trend admittedly is upward, but how quickly?

RESPONSE!

Student Symposium Planned

The RESPONSE week-end, a student-sponsored symposium on "Creative Survival," will be keynoted by C.D. Jackson, publisher of Life magazine. He will speak at 8:30 p.m. Friday in Dillon Gymnasium.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner will introduce Mr. Jackson. A former president of the Radio Free Europe Committee, Mr. Jackson directed a special economic warfare mission to Turkey for the state department and also served as deputy chief of psychological warfare for allied forces during World War II.

The RESPONSE program, the brainchild of 14 undergraduates, has been designed to bring students into direct contact with speakers through discussion groups to be held at undergraduate clubs after each part of speeches.

On Saturday at 10 a.m. in Alexander Hall, E. P. Morgen, news analyst for the American Broadcasting Co., and Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R. — N.Y.) will speak. Mr. Morgan's topic will be "Communications as a Moulder of Public Opinion." Sen. Javits will discuss "National Security and the Implications for Civil Liberties."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R.-Mass.) and Dr. J.D. Frank, Johns Hopkins University psychologist, will speak on Saturday at 2 p.m. in Alexander Hall. Sen. Saltonstall's topic will be 'Sub-Federal Government and Its Relationship to a Dynamic Society." Dr. Frank will speak on "Creative Survival — Psychological Challenges of the Nuclear Age."

A dinner will be held Saturday evening in Dillon Gym followed by entertainment by the United Nations Folk Singers, Israeli Dancers and Traditional Hungarian Dancers. Dr. Robert F. Goheen and Prof. Eric Goldman will speak briefly.

The Rev. A. C. Outler of Southern Methodist University will speak on "The Moral Order in a Materialistic World" at the 11 a.m. chapel service on Sunday. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D — Minn.) will deliver the week-end's summe-

"MIKADO" SET FOR MAY

Lee Bristol To Star. Princeton Savoyards' production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" will be staged Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 4, 5 and 6, at McCarter Theatre. There will be three evening performances and a matinee on Saturday, May 6. Vernon Buschel is serving as musical director, with A. Munroe Wade once again taking over as dramatic director.

Lee H. Bristol, Jr., will have the lead role of "Ko Ko," the lord high executioner. Mr. Bristol, who played the admiral in last year's production of "H.M.S. Pinafore," has also been seen in the Princeton Savoyards' productions of "Iolanthe" and "The Gondoliers." A businessman and a composer of sacred music, Mr. Bristol has sung the comic leads in all but four of the Savoy operas with the Village Light Opera Company of New York and the Strand Opera Company of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Ruth Bent, soloist at the First Presbyterian Church, will take the part of "Yum Yum," leader of the "three little maids from school." Mrs. Bent, who played "Phyllis" in the Princeton production of "Iolanthe," was a member of the original Broadway cast of "The King and I."

The two other "little maids from school" will be portrayed by Miss Janet Thorsen of Princeton and Miss Debbie Truxal of Trenton. Miss Thorsen has had leading roles in four Savoyards' productions and also appeared in the Intime production, "Mother Loves Me." Miss Truxal, a newcomer to the Princeton area, played leading parts in "The King and I" and "The Student Prince" while living in Ohio and also was a soloist with the Dayton (Ohio) Philharmonic Orchestra.

Pyne is "Nanki Poo." Insley B. Pyne, a member of the electrical engineering department at Princeton University, will play "Nanki Poo", and Joan Kersenbrock, a recent graduate of Westminster Choir College, will be "Katisha." Other leading players will be Frank Carr, Princeton '62, as the "Mikado;" George H. Gallup, Jr., of Princeton as "Pooh Bah" and Frank Towne, Princeton '61, as "Pish Tush."

A large chorus of more than 40 members will be composed of Princeton residents and students from Westminster Choir College, Princeton University and Princeton High School. Information about tickets may be obtained from: The Savoyards of Princeton, care of Edwin Lewis, 3 Blair Hall, Princeton University.

IT'S A PARTY

With Comden and Green. When Betty Comden and Adolph Green come to McCarter Theatre on Friday, April 21, they will present a resume of their entire career, beginning with their Village Vanguard show, "The Revuers," in 1938 and concluding with selections from their newest Broadway show, "Do Re Mi." The entertainers will appear under the auspices of C-K Productions. Tickets are on sale at The University Store.

"PARTY" HOSTS: Betty Comden and Adolph Green will present their Broadway show, "A Party," on Friday, April 21, at 8:30 p.m. at McCarter Theatre.

The revue will include, besides the selections from "Do Re Mi" and "The Revuers," songs and sketches from "On the Town," "Bells Are Ringing," "Say, Darling," other Broadway musicals and a few movies as well.

Brooks Atkinson, writing of Comden and Green in the New York "Times," described "A Party with Comden and Green" in this fashion:

"As performers of their own material they are unexceptionable. Miss Comden, elegant and reserved, Mr. Green affable and ironic — they compose a perfect combination. Now and then, Mr. Green horses around like a wit on a buffoon's holiday, and he is altogether delightful. But they never sacrifice the essence of their role as commentators on the contemporary scene from the outside. They have style, taste and standards. They also have manners."

AMERICANA IS THEME

Of Last Children's Program. "Grandpa Whip's Family Album," the last production in this year's Children's Entertainment Series, will come to McCarter Theatre on Tuesday, April 18.

The play features imaginative dances, authentic folk songs and colorful settings and costumes. Characters who step from Grandpa Whip's album include American Indians, early settlers, pioneers, cowboys, railroad men, suffragettes and immigrants from every part of the world.

This will be her only major New Jersey appearence this season and will follow her concerts at Town Hall, Philadelphia, and Carnegie Hall, New York.

Odetta is currently appearing as "Nancy" in the motion picture, "Sanctuary," based on works by William Faulkner. Her experience also includes musical comedy, classical singing, night club work and concerts in every major concert hall in America. Her recordings include "Odetta at Carnegie Hall," "Ballad for Americans," "My Eyes Have Seen" and "Christmas Spiritual."

THE PLAYHOUSE

101 Dalmatians (April 6-8). When Walt Disney is bad, he is very, very bad, but when he is good he's thoroughly entertaining. "101 Dalmatians" marks his return to the happy, feature-length cartoon and brings back memories of the highly successful "Peter Pan" and "Lady and the Tramp."

In fact, the heroine of the current cartoon bears a great resemblance to "Lady" of the earlier picture, but this one has a much better story. Narrated by Pongo, a Dalmatian hound, it concerns the efforts of his mate, Perdita, and himself to rescue 99 (count em!) puppies from the evil Cruella De Vil.

ALL RIGHT, WHO BASHED IN THE CHARIOT? Charlton Heston has a few questions for lovely Haya Hararet in this scene from William Wyler's Academy Award winning "Ben-Hur." The fifteen million dollar epic, filmed in Italy, is continuing its limited engagement at the Garden.

Cruella is a school-mate of Perdita's mistress who wants to have a coat made of Dalmatian fur. The plot leads to many scenes of mystery and humor which are all quite enjoyable for young and old alike. A musical score by George Burns includes three novelty songs "Cruella De Vil," "Dalmatian Plantation" and "Kanine Krunchies Komercial" written by Mel Leven.

"101 Dalmations" is in technicolor, except for the dalmatians who are in black and white. Recommended.

The Sins of Rachel Cade (April 9-11) takes the Belgian Congo of two decades ago as its setting and proceeds to spin a melodramatic tale of the life and love of an American missionary nurse. Angie Dickinson is cast in the title role, Roger Moore plays opposite her as the man who provides romance without marriage.

Based on the novel, "Rachel Cade," the film recounts the experiences of Miss Dickinson when she goes to the Congo to serve at a run-down mission hospital. Death of the only doctor the night she arrives and the superstitions of the natives against the white man's medicine immediately complicate her future. So does the agnostic administrator of the village (Peter Finch), who admits he'd like to know more about her, in any event.

A doctor for the mission and romance for Miss Dickinson literally fall from the skies when a burning plane crashes near the village, sparing the life of Roger Moore. From there, the story centers about the conflict in her life in attempting to win him while seeking to persuade the natives that the mission hospital is something better than their own preventative measures against illness.

Overly long, the film is occasionally paced in too leisurely fashion to maintain full interest. Replete with all the trimmings of a maiden's unrequited love, and set in Darkest Africa, it can best be defined as a Lava Soap Opera.

THE GARDEN

Ben-Hur (through Saturday, April 15) is the most expensive picture ever made. Filmed in Italy, it took five years and $15,000,000 to complete. Since then, it has received 11 Academy Awards; awards as the Best Picture of the Year from the New York Film Critics, the British Film Academy and the Hollywood Foreign Press; the Screen Producer's Guild Award; and the Screen Director's Guild Award. It's not THAT good.

However, there is something

IT'S NEW To Us

WASH 'N WASH

Summer at Lahey's. The spring and summer stretch ahead, girls, and so far as we can see, we're all going to spend our time washing and washing and washing. Practically everything we saw on a recent safari to Lahey's is wash-and wear and you don't think your husband's going to suds out his own slacks, do you?

The particular eye-catcher in this shop is the pair of yellow slacks described in the box next door, but there are other items as well. The same slacks in deep olive green, for one thing. And a group of similar slacks in greys and greens which seemed identical to the yellow ones except for the substitution of a plain, or non-golf buckle. These are $10.50.

"Madras" sports jackets are wash and wear, too. We use the quotes because this fabric is not genuine Madras.

It's a dark dacron-and-cotton plaid that is like Madras except that it won't run. The shades are greys and greens on the olive side.

Jayson has something for you to wash, too. It's a stretch golf shirt that comes in just one size and will fit anybody from 34 to 50.

That's size, not years. The style is classic: ribbed body, knit collar, knit band at edge of sleeves. Choose from white, bright red, olive, gold or navy at $5 each.

Arrow's knits are sized for small, medium and large and they have been designed for a variety of tastes. One style has a small open mesh, one a fine knit. There is an orlon knit which is soft (almost like lamb's wool) and fashioned from an orlon yarn that almost looks like Shetland.

These golf shirts all have knit collars and some have a narrow band of color around the short sleeve band or the collar. Prices are $5 to $7.95.

QUILTING PARTY!

At Clayton's. You've known for some time, of course, about the crib quilt kits (say that one fast, sometime) available for handcrafters at Clayton's. The Palmer Square shop now has single bed and double bed quilts to make from kits.

You have a choice of several early American patterns, some quite formal and some country-style, and you work the patterns in cross-stitching of your own color choice, using six-strand floss. Kits are $7.98.

For spring and summer wear, you'll want one or two of the two and three-piece dresses that are new to the Clayton stock this year. The three-piece we saw uses a nub weave for a straight skirt, straight short jacket and sleeveless, U-neck top.

Colors are lilac, green or brown, price is $14.95. Then, there's a two-piecer in maize or beige, made of rayon and silk with a straight skirt and an overblouse with a round collar, $10.95.

Seersucker devotees will prefer a two piece suit in blue or green with straight skirt and short, double-breasted jacket for $12.95.

Some of the handsomest linen prints we've seen in some time are now at Clayton's for the summer seamstress. There is a group of embroidered linens, each color enhanced with a different design.

Lilac has an overall pattern of lilac embroidery. Pale willow has tiny pink and green roses, widely spaced. Toast has a fleur de lis and the natural has a wide, woven block of the same color.

Checked linens are good and bold, with checks in shades of grey, red, blue or brown interwoven with the natural hue of the linen itself. Glen plaids in soft olive, lilac, or grey blue are pleasing and quite surprising in a linen collection.

For a more informal dress, you might choose the batik-

Yallow on the Green

Whenever we think of color in sport (and it's a question that nags at us all the time), we usually think of hunters, dressed in something red to frighten away the bullets of other hunters.

Well, it seems that golfers wear bright colors, too. At least, they do if they shop at Lahey's. Strolling past the slack rack one fine morning, we found a pair of buttercup yellow slacks, held in place by a buckle with two golf clubs emblazoned on it.

Cheerful as the sun itself, and thoughtfully made of dacron and assorted other synthetics and naturals, to wash-and-wear. Cost: $10.95.

Just one thing—we appreciate the tag that tells how to wash, but there's nothing that tells how to mend. Suppose you get a hole in one?

Used Books Wanted.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

A public high school for Negroes in Southern Florida is in desperate need of 1000 books for its library. The State has raised its standards of accreditation, which is all to the good, but has not provided Dunbar High School with the necessary books to meet the new standard. Therefore, the brighter student from this high school, who might possibly have gone on to college, will not now have a chance, unless the school is able to retain its accreditation.

Books that are more adult than high school books are appreciated because the teachers need books, too, and the advanced students need them to do research. (The Negro has no access to the public library).

The main drive, however, is for high school level books. The most obvious lack is in the linguistics and science.

They are short of the classics ordinarily found in a high school library, e.g., George Eliot, Jane Austen, Bronte Sisters, Hawthorne, etc. Books on various trades, art, music and poetry are needed; also books on biology, biography, physics, chemistry, ethics, fiction, nonfiction. . .the list is long and the need is great.

The condition of the books is not important. Dunbar School will be grateful for any donation.

A new book would be an unlooked for treasure. It is doubtful that these children have ever touched or seen a brand new book.

Books can be left at 80 Alexander Street, Princeton, (WA 4-2682), or can be mailed directly to Dunbar High School: 1857 High Street, Fort Myers, Florida. Postal rate for educational material is four cents per first pound and one cent per pound thereafter.

The elementery school is also seriously short of books and anything that can be sent to them will be most welcome.

I hope you will publish this appeal. Dunbar has an excellent faculty who would be happy to have the tools with which to teach.

My sincerest thanks.

Is Survival Likely?

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The concern of Princetonians over the state of world affairs was well illustrated in last week's Town Topics (4/2-8/61). Facing each other on opposite pages was your Question Of The Week, "How much hope do you hold out for a workable world disarmament plan?" and the SANE advertisement containing C.P. Snow's warning of "either" a restriction on nuclear armaments with the risks of violation, "Or" the certainty of the disaster of a nuclear war.

In contrast with Snow's conclusion that "Between a risk and a certainty, a sane man does not hesitate," Princetonians divided about 2 to 1 in favor of expressing little or no hope for a workable world disarmament plan. Even among those who had hopes, really only one person, Mrs. Scheide, felt impelled to insist that disarmament is a necessity.

By further contrast it will be interesting to see the results of two other news items in the above Town Topics, namely: the student-run symposium on the theme "Creative-Survival" and Dr. W. G. Pollard's address on "The Problem of Human Conduct in the Atomic Age." From Snow's view, "survival", creative or otherwise, will hinge on disarmament.

What will our U.S. Senators attending the symposium come up with? Surely to survive will require creative imagination.

The problem toward which the creative imagination need be directed is this: How to institute world government? If you do not like the words "world government" call it a "structured peace" or an "integrated world community", etc. But in effect a world government will be the shape of the future if there is to be any human future. It is the nature of that government and how it will be instituted that is still open to serious debate. What is still open to serious debate is whether the future will be a "Brave New World," a "1984," a creative, ethical development of mankind generally, or something else.

This premise bears on a practical aspect of the disarmament question that seems to have received inadequate attention. Before a workable disarmement agreement will be reached the UN must be reorganized to the point where it has the power of a real world government capable of compulsory taxation, binding legislative, police and judiciary powers. For clearly, nations will not be persuaded to renounce their individual capabilities to protect themselves through war unless they can find a sense of security in some type of collective action.

The reorganization of the UN will require many a revision, but perhaps of greatest import is that it will require that we Americans sit down privately and in government and think through just what kind of a world government we would like to see. Such is the real international question facing America today. It will be interesting to see if the aforesaid coming events here in Princeton will address themselves to these questions of substance.

in it for everyone. A tender, moving love affair; plenty of action in the battle scenes between two navies; the story of Christ, simply told (except for a terrible prologue); and the growing enmity between two brothers all tend to keep the long (3 hours, 32 minutes plus one intermission) picture moving at a furious pace.

And the chariot race. The chariot race is one of the miracles of modern movie-making. It is the spectacle to end all spectacles, a masterpiece of staging, camera-work and stunt riding. It begins just after the intermission, if you want to avoid the slower first half of the picture.

Acting is at peak performance throughout, from the old masters (Charlton Heston and Jack Hawkins) to the newcomers (Stephen Boyd and lovely Haya Harareet). Defects, besides the length, include the prologue and an excess of brutality and shock items. The epilogues to the chariot race and the galley battle and the crucifixion scene all seem at least to approach, if not actually violate, the bounds of good taste.

"Ben-Hur" is in color and Panavision. Performances are every day, including Sundays, at 1:30 and 7:30. Special prices also prevail. Recommended.

style print in brown on natural or blue on natural. A green print or a cluster of apricot roses stand out against a linen background.

The silk linen — or linen silks — are solids. There's a magnificent yellow which we'll call buttercup since it's spring, but which we'd probably call "maize" if it were September.

Lilac, turquoise, jade, sand and that 1961 hot pink are all represented. A watery silk print looks like a Monet. A sand silk print with black polka-dots looks like a happy clown.

The bag you carry will undoubtedly come from Calderon. This estimable house sends along a collection compounded of dark brown leather, bone leather, burlap, natural colored linen and straw in varying amounts and combinations, priced from $8 to $27.

One of the prizes of this group is a deep linen bag that snaps up against itself to make a shallow bag if you want it to. We like a leather-lined basket with a leather handle, and a long, thin burlap clutch banded with dark brown leather in a narrow strip. A Belgian linen bag, is almost the size of an overnight bag. It's leather bound. Where are you bound?

Speaking of overnight, Clayton's has a pleasing ensemble in batiste consisting of sleep coat, shorty or waltz gown in a soft print of cosmos (asters?) painted blue and pink against white. Lace edges the bodice and the narrow straps. A dacron and cotton gown is white with apricot colored roses and an apricot satin sash.

BROAD ITALIAN HAND

In Patio Dresses. The bright Mediterranean sun itself has been splashed across a group of patio dresses now brightening a corner at Rosette Pennington in the Shopping Center. Some of these galeties are formal enough to go out for cocktails, others will stay in the dinette over breakfast coffee, but all are equally colorful, all are priced at $28.

Waffle pique (the fabric for most of them) supplies the white background for a dress with alternating stripes of olive, white and a five-inch band of violet and orange zinnias. A narrow, belt, olive, laces at the waist. Comes in blues or greens, too.

Navy and green roses separated by a turquoise trellis appear on another dress, and gold, rose and deep green makes the all-over print on still another. And for your gayest mood, you'll choose the two-foot wide red flower-petal print against a charcoal ground.

Several ensembles — in a considerably calmer vein — await your next trip to the city for dinner and theater. There's a surah with taffeta lined jacket and a pleated U-neck, a stained-glass print in royal and purple silk with a wide-necked no-collar jacket, a light blue raw silk with a tie-neck jacket and a sober Glen plaid in rayon with a full box-pleated skirt and a short jacket.

Looking ahead, a few weeks anyway, Rosette Pennington provides a cabana full of bathing suits, priced from $18 to $25 and designed for any figure. Try on the white eyelet cotton arranged over a turquoise lining and cut with cuffless boy leg, or the modest dressmaker in lemon print with wide cut leg and full skirt.

We like the linen one in natural, rust and gold, its bars of subdued color outlined with a fine black line and ornamented with black silhouettes of nautical flags.

THE TIGER'S NOT FOR HIDING: In a new you see him, now you don't sequence, the chief attraction of the Palmer Square island, the once-familiar tiger is readily visible only when viewed head on (top photo). According to the Borough Engineer, Arthur T. Brokaw, the white pines that surround the tiger (bottom photo) have grown to a tiger-hiding, 20-foot height. They will be removed and replaced with shorter shrubbery donated by Princeton Municipal Improvements. Work on the project, which includes the addition of walks and a complete relandscaping of the island, is scheduled to begin within a few weeks. (Staff Photos.)

Thanks from the Canteen.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

On behalf of the former members of the Princeton Teen Canteen Youth Council I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many people of our town who have helped to make this year the successful one it has been.

Special expressions of gratitude are extended to the Princeton Borough and Princeton Township Police Departments, the parents of Canteen members, the YM-YWCA staff, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Parent Teachers Association, the Princeton Borough Board of Education and in general, the many friends of teenagers, who have given so much of their time and effort to the betterment of the Canteen.

We realize we have had our difficulties and we know that w thout the help of these townsfolk our problems would not have been resolved.

We all sincerely hope that the citizens of Princeton and its surrounding communities will aid the present Canteen Youth Council even more during the coming year so that an even better Canteen will he available to the youth of this area

Thank you all very much.

Questions Music Review.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

Unfortunately, "the serious concert-goer" is frequently confronted with "impoverished yet pretentious" compositions performed on the concert stage. Frank Lewin's "Evocation" does not necessarily fall into this category, the reviewer of last week's Princeton Symphony concert notwithstanding.

Perhaps the "Roman gladiators" and "clipper ships" evoked in his mind's eye resulted more from previous knowledge of the composer's occupation than from an impartial, critically intelligent appraisal of the intrinsic worth of the composition itself.

And perhaps the glorious images of jousters and sailing vessels still floated before his imaginative eyes while he listened to Dorothy Commiss' "Sea Shanties," for he certainly failed to take note of their mediocre orchestration (not to mention lack of originality). Else how the misnomers "unpretentious" and "appealing?"

It would be of no small interest to be clued in on the identity of this mysterious reviewer, whose observations concerning Mr. Gevie's regrettable rendition of the Brahms concerto were only too fully justified.

Editor's Note: In common with certain other newspapers and magazines, TOWN TOPICS does not use bylines on its stories and reviews. DR. FREDA JOINS STAFF

Of Princeton Hospital, Dr. John C. Freda of 3290 Route 27, Franklin Park, has joined the medical and dental staff of Princeton Hospital. He is now practicing with Dr. Benedict Scasserra in the Community Medical Center at Kendall Park.

A graduate of Princeton High School, Dr. Freda did his pre-medical work at Lafayette College and received his medical degree from Temple University School of Medicine in Philadelphia. Before entering practice, he interned at Northeastern Hospital in Philadelphia.

The new member of the Hospital staff is believed to be the only staff member to have been born in Princeton. The doctor who delivered him was his new associate, Dr. Scasserra.

HEALTH PROBLEMS

Sewers, Teeth. The Township Board of Health met on Thursday night and discussed a pressing and continuing problem sewers—and a less urgent but still continuing problem—fluoridation—both in the light of the new state minimum health code which went into effect on April 1.

For many municipalities the size of Princeton Township, enforcement of the new code will present serious problems, according to state health officials, but a district state health officer, Stanley P. Mayers, has written to Acting Township Health Officer Marcella Farley expressing his department's complete approval with the manner in which the Township has been meeting the minimum health standards set by the state.

The most urgent problems in Princeton Township are sewage disposal and pollution. At Thursday night's meeting, members of the Board of Health were faced again with the problems of drainage on various Township properties, one on Cherry Hill Road, one on Province Line, one on The Great Road, one on Galbreath Drive West, plus three overflowing septic systems.

"There are probably other defective systems, too," said Mrs. Farley and Dr. William Kleinberg, chairman of the Board of Health, said. "All we can do is look the other way."

At present, the sewer problems of the Township are still under study, and will be for some time to come. Two particular areas have been given high priority by Township Committee: the Hillside area, whose sewer will cost about $200,000, and The Great Road, which will cost about $300,000. Several alternate routes are under study for these areas and the most of the sewers may depend upon the choice of route.

Underlying the sewer problem in the Township is the geology of the municipality which is the basic cause of most of the trouble. The rock is hard and impervious, the soil dense and clay-like. These two factors, particularly the impermeability of the rock, will influence the choice of the sewer routes and the cost of each individual project because the more rock to be blasted, the more cost.

Even more difficult than choosing a route is choosing a method of financing. Should the sewers be financed by a bond issue and a general rise in the tax rate? Should they be assessed to the affected property owners? If so, how can the assessment be fairly made?

How about the problem of easements. The areas that need sewers so desperately are widely separated from each other. How can the Township provide them with sewers in the most economical and serviceable way?

The possibility of cooperation with other municipalities has been considered by Township Committee and the Board of Health. Montgomery Township and Rocky Hill are adjacent to parts of Princeton Township that have sewer problems; however, these communities have not even been making sewer plans, so far as Township Committee knows, and to ask them to cooperate might stretch out the time indefinitely.

Meanwhile, according to Mrs Farley, many persons in the Township have septic systems which are in definite violation of the sanitary codes; the state, however, realizes that these people cannot be haled into court and fined because they are caught in a situation which has no practical solution until sewers are put in. "The state knows that the Township is trying to solve this problem," Mrs. Farley explains.

How to Fluoridate? In the matter of fluoridation, Dr. Kleinberg said that he had discussed the possibility of a fluoride tablet program with and that the Borough still feels that treatment of the water supply is the only effective way to handle fluoridation.

Dr. Kleinberg siad he would continue to discuss with pediatricians and dentists the feasibility of a free fluoride tablet program, would make a cost-estimate survey for such a program and would report to the Board of Health. In support of his proposal, Dr. Kleinberg pointed out that many residents of the Township have their own wells and that they would not, therefore, benefit from fluoridation of the public water supply.

In other business at Thursday night's meeting, the Board, Mrs. Farley reported that, following a complaint, she had visited the store on Route 206 owned by Mary Watts and had asked the owners to paint the establishment, remove some of the merchandise hanging from the ceiling and clear away other merchandise in order to present a cleaner appearance.

Mrs. Farley also reported that there was no need at present in the Township for a Baby Keep Well Station because the present policy of referring cases to clinics at Princeton Hospital meets the Township needs.

MUSIC
In Princeton

'MAGNIFICENT CONCERT'

By Westminster Choir. The Westminster Choir, under the direction of guest conductor, Dr. Elaine Brown, gave its only Princeton concert of the season in McCarter Theatre Tuesday evening.

The concert proved to be a magnificent success. Dr. Brown obviously knew the music thoroughly and was able to convey her knowledge and interpretive excellence to the chorus without hesitation. Judging by the superb results she obtained and the manner by which she easily avoided the many pitfalls inherent in choral singing, her vast and impressive background in choral directing was at once discernable.

The program began with a lively work for double chorus by Orlando di Lasso which was sung confidently, avoiding any sense of timidity. These qualities are rarely achiever at the outset of any choral concert.

Following, was an additional double choral setting by Palestrina, an immensely subtle work performed perhaps a little less successfully. Linear independence was, to a degree, sacrificed in favor of simultaneous accent and phrases written for middle voices were sometimes chopped off before having a chance to take their natural course.

The second section of the program included works by Gibbons, Morley, Montiverdi, Gesualdo and Banchieri. The Gibbons and the Banchieri works were program pieces of the most literal sort. The former contained cries of London street vendors, beggars, chimney sweeps and the latter included figures which were to represent dogs, cats, and owls.

Besides this kind of mimicry the works were, of course, based on solid musical foundations providing the chorus with an opportunity to exploit the various contrasts of color available within their group. The spirit was easily captured and a balance between musical and extra-musical effects was expertly obtained.

The Morely piece was, in one sense, based on the contrast between short notes and lyrical passages. The problem of pacing or the change from one to the other came quite naturally. The madrigals by Monteverde and Gesueldo suffered because of intonation problems but the overall result of interpretation was convincing enough to be thoroughly enjoyable.

The high point of the program proved to be the third section. The work was a motet by J. S. Bach for double chorus.

It is a truly inspired piece which moves along at a terrific rate. The climaxes were clear in the performance and, again, pacing was a matter completely and artistically controlled by Dr. Brown.

After the intermission, the chorus offered a succession of songs, with piano accompaniment, by Brahms, which alternated between ensemble and solo pieces. The soloists, whose names were not mentioned in the program, were, it must be admitted, stiff, with the possible exception of the third singer who seemed to have more experience than the other two.

The concert concluded with a selection of folk songs, rounding out the program in a lighter vein.

PREMIERE SCHEDULED

By PHS Choir. The American premiere performance of Anton Webern's "Cantata No. 2" will be presented at the annual Spring concert of the Princeton High School Choir, under the direction of Thomas Hilbish. The concert is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. on Wednesday, April 12, in the Princeton High School auditorium.

Webern, an Austrian composer, died in 1945. His "Cantata No. 2" has been performed in Europe but never before in the United States. The cantata is written in the 12-tone serial style of Schonberg and has six sections. This is believed to be the first time any high school choir has attempted such a work. Marcia Ramsey and Durant Robertson will be soloists, with Sylvia Nichols at the piano.

The concert next Wednesday will also include a performance of the Gloria section of Bach's "B Minor Mass." Elizabeth Dinsmore and Mr. Robertson will be soloists, with Mathilde McKinney at the piano. The Gloria section includes "Gloria and Et in Terra Pax," "Laudamus Te," "Gratias Agimus Tibi," "Qui Tollis," "Qui Sedes," "Quoniam Tu Solus" and "Cum Sancto Spiritu."

The choir is composed of about 50 Princeton High School seniors, juniors and sophomores, selected by audition in the Spring. Choir is a regular class for which academic credit is given. The choir will make another appearance May 15, when it will sing Faure's "Requiem" with the Princeton Symphony.

SIMONEAU TO SING

At Concert Friday. Leopold Simoneau, Canadian tenor, will give a recital Monday at 8:30 p.m. in McCarter Theatre. This will be the final concert in Series I of the Princeton University Concerts. Mr. Simoneau will be accompanied at the piano by Allen Rogers.

Born in Montreal, Mr. Simoneau began his formal music studies at the age of eight and later sang as soloist in the choir of the Montreal Cathedral and in numerous college and amateur operatic performances. He was singled out when the late Sir Thomas Beecham chose him as the tenor whom he preferred above all others for the exacting roles in Mozart's operas. Mr. Simoneau's name is now synonymous with superb tenor lyricism throughout the world.

For his recital in Princeton Mr. Simoneau has chosen arias and songs by Handel, Rameau, Schubert, Mozart, Duparc and Milhaud. All seats for the concert have been sold by subscription but 50 standing room tickets will be on sale at the McCarter Theatre box office beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Standing room tickets cannot be reserved.

CHORUS TO SING

At Seminary. The Davidson College Male Chorus of 30 voices will sing in concert Monday at 8:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium at Princeton Theological Seminary. The public is invited and admission is free.

The Chorus, currently on its 27th annual spring tour, will sing from the works of Croce, Gumpelzheimer, Clement, Bortniansky and Gundry. In addition, several songs by contemporary American composers will be presented.

SERIES ANNOUNCED

For University Concerts. Joan Sutherland, the coloratura soprano whose recent appearances have elicited high critical praise, will be the first performer in the Series I Concerts planned for next season by Princeton University Concerts. Miss Sutherland will appear in McCarter on November 28.

Other artists in the Series I group are Malcolm Frazer, pianist, January 6; the Cleveland Orchestra under George Szell, February 13; the Bach Aria Group with Eileen Farrell, soprano, and Jan Peerce, tenor, February 26; and the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Charles Munch on April 3.

For the Series II concerts, the following artists have been engaged: Gerard Souzay, baritone, October 16; the Lenox Quartet, November 13; Rudolf Serkin, pianist, December 17; Isaac Stern, violinist, January 18; and The Beaux Arts Trio on April 16.

Ticket information may be obtained from Mrs. MacKenty Bryan, 12 South Middle Reunion Hall. Former subscribers will be given preference in assigning seat reservations.

CORRECTION

The date for the Series II concert by Leopold Simoneau, tenor, was incorrectly listed in last week's Calendar as Monday, April 3. The concert will be held Monday, April 10, in McCarter Theatre. See story under "Music in Princeton."

MRS. HICKS CHAIRMAN

Of Dumont Women's Division. Mrs Lewis W. Hicks of Orchard Lane, Lawrenceville, has been named chairman of the Women's Division of the statewide Dumont-for-Governor campaign. State Senator Wayne Dumont is running against State Senator Walter H. Jones and James P. Mitchell, former Secretary of Labor, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the April 18 primaries.

Mrs. Hicks, who recently moved to Lawrenceville from Snowden Lane, Princeton, was chairman of the Mercer County Young Republicans and a county committeewoman while in Princeton. She is currently a members of the board of directors and program chairman of the New Jersey Federation of Republican Women.

Mrs. Hicks said that she was supporting Senator Dumont because of his experience as a member of the State Tax Policy Commission and his stand in favor of study of a new broad-based tax program as a method of alleviating New Jersey's fiscal deficit problem.

RAUCH GOP CANDIDATE

In South Brunswick. Republican candidate in the South Brunswick Township primary, Joseph E. Rauch has taken issue with the G.O.P. incumbent, Warren G. Parmenter on the township's industrial code, road maintenance, building code and master plan.

Mr. Rauch stated, "My opponent, who is road commissioner, has not expanded his department to meet present day needs. The extremely low level of road maintenance has led to serious safety hazards in many parts of the township.

"An excellent committee prepared and submitted a building code to the township committee five months ago," Mr. Rauch continued. "Where did it go? We need it! And when will we have a public meeting to discuss the master plan?"

Mr. Rauch pointed out that an industrial commission was established almost a year after Mr. Parmenter has disbanded the previous commission, and nearly three years after Mr. Rauch had recommended the creation of such a group.

COUNCIL MEETS MONDAY

. . . Vote for Jim Mitchell On April 18

and you'll be cheering the landslide in November

What will it be for New Jersey? Four more years of Trenton politics — or four dynamic years of responsible government?

And what will it be for the Republican Party? Another defeat—or a landslide victory? These are the questions you'll be answering with your vote on April 18.

If you believe New Jersey needs a great governor—and the party a great candidate—your vote will go to Jim Mitchell.

Jim Mitchell, Eisenhower's Secretary of Labor, is the man who's big enough to carry your hopes for the state and for the party. He's a statesman, a leader, a fighting campaigner—and he's a winner.

Former President Dwight Eisenhower, Senator Clifford Case, former Senator H. Alexander Smith and responsible, thinking Republicans and Independents in every corner of the state have given Jim Mitchell their full, whole-hearted support. They know he will win in November, and they know he will make the best governor New Jersey has ever had.

Today a great movement for better government is sweeping this state—and at the head of the movement is Jim Mitchell. We ask you to join this crusade. We ask you to make Jim Mitchell your candidate for governor.

DRIVER DIES IN CRASH

On Quaker Road. Michael Kostival, Jr., of 1202 Hamilton Avenue, Trenton, was killed last Thursday when the car he was driving was in a head-on collision with a car driven by Richard Hocking, 41, of 15 Monroe Avenue, Lawrenceville. The accident occurred on Quaker Road, a quarter of a mile from the Mercer Street intersection in Princeton Township.

Mr. Kostival's daughter, Barbara, 13, suffered cuts. Mr. Hocking received three broken ribs and bruises. Both were taken to Princeton Hospital in the ambulance of the First Aid Unit, treated and then released. Mr. Kostival was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Leonard M. Berry of 205 Nassau Street, deputy county physician.

The accident was investigated by Sergeant Lester Anderson and Patrolmen Michael Kopliner of the Princeton Township Police. They reported that Mr. Kostival, an unemployed iron worker, was returning home after having a haircut at Jack Honore's barber shop. Mr. Hocking, owner of the Pine Tree Cottages on Route 1, was on his way to make a deposit in the First National Bank of Princeton.

According to the police, Mr. Kostival's car apparently swerved into the path of Mr. Hocking's automobile. Both men were driving 1949 model cars which were wrecked in the crash.

Mr. Kostival leaves his wife, Mrs. Rosalie Kostival; three brothers, the Very Rev. Msgr. John J. Kostival of the Holy Ghost Church, Cleveland, Ohio; Patrolmen Joseph J. Kostival and George Kostivel, both of Trenton, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Klimanski, also of Trenton.

Mrs. Edge pointed out that Sen. Walter H. Jones served in the state legislature during three years of her husband's second term as governor. She said, "I know that during that period of service Mr. Jones won the admiration and complete respect of Governor Edge for his aggressive, fearless and forward looking viewpoint on all matters of state government."

RINA SHOWS PAINTINGS

By Baranik. Fourteen paintings by the Lithuenian-born painter, Rudolph Baranik, will be on display through May 6 at Rina Gallery, Charlton Street. Baranik has had many one-man shows in Paris and New York and has exhibited at many art centers in this country, including the Museum of Modern Art, the Corcoran Gallery, the Albright Gallery, the Brooklyn Museum, Dallas Museum of Fine Arts, the Pennsylvania Academy and Illinois Wesleyan. The Whitney Museum in New York recently purchased one of his paintings for its permanent collection.

The show at Rina Gallery consists of abstract and semi-abstract works, in a sombre and controlled mood. "Sleep" is a large canvas in warm blues, greys and purple, with a cowled, maternal figure hovering protectively over a white form. "Those Who Weep" is an austere, angular pieta seen through barbed wire and "Northern Light" is a luminous yellow abstraction which

What has time done to your life insurance?

Everyone knows what can happen to the performance of a car that isn't serviced regularly. The same risk of "poor performance" holds true for your life insurance if you neglect to keep it up to date. Time brings changes in your life that in turn create the need for a review of your policies. Perhaps new beneficiaries should be appointed. Perhaps the method by which benefits are to be paid, either by income or by single amount, is no longer in your family's best interest. What would a careful review of your policies reveal? That you have more than enough life insurance — or that time has brought new needs for protection and saving?

By keeping in touch with the Man from Manufacturers you can be sure your life insurance is arranged to do the job you want it to do. Why not call him for a policy "check-up" today?

Report from THE MAYOR

A Fitting Tribute. The Princeton community will surely support enthusiastically the newly - organized trust fund to be known as the Irving W. Mershon Scholarship Fund. No better way could be found to honor this beloved man who has been a tower of strength in this town for so many years.

In business and community life and certainly in the field of public education, this quiet, able, dedicated gentleman has been the very model of good citizenship. Mayor and Council will certainly want to join, as individuals, in the support of a fund that can help to continue Mr. Mershon's great concern for investment in the future of our young people through maximum educational opportunity.

Cooperation. Just about everyone seems to agree on the need for additional off-street parking for convenience and for the economic health of the Borough. Working out a plan for a feasible parking project requires hours and days of patient study, negotiation and effort.

Last week, for example, members of the Council met on three separate occasions to discuss vital aspects of planning for much-needed parking in the VanDeventer-Nassau - Moore Street area behind the stores and offices fronting on the busy main artery. In the judgment of Mayor and Council, the time is right for action and the vast majority of affected owners seem to sense the importance of working out the details promptly in the community interest.

Agreement on the Council proposals will revitalize an important part of our business area. In view of the needs and the opportunities, it is hoped that there will be cooperation matching the sense of urgency of the Council.

On The Calendar. Also on last week's calendar of meetings, the Mayor attended the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Princeton Hospital and a special meeting of the board of trustees of the Joint Public Library. On each of these boards, the Mayor serves ex officio.

This week's schedule includes the agenda meeting of Council, the regular planning board meeting, and a number of conferences on planning and parking matters. Next week's schedule lists the regular meeting of Mayor and Council on Monday evening; the public hearing of the planning board on Tuesday evening; the hosting of the monthly dinner meeting of the Mercer County League of Municipalities on Wednesday evening; the regular open house at Borough Hall on Thursday evening; and a special meeting of Mayor and Council to hear the alleged alcoholic beverage violations involving the Ivy Inn on Friday evening.

Arbor Day. The Borough is hopeful that special attention can be given to Arbor Day this year. During the past year many trees have been destroyed by disease, hurricane or the heavy snow and ice of a tough winter. Replacements and additions will help to maintain and enhance the beauty of this great town.

The engineering department is exploring various suggestions for tree-planting programs. The arbor day efforts will be an appropriate follow-up to an intensive clean-up campaign scheduled for April 17-32.

"Tell It To The Mayor!". The regular weekly open house sessions will be held on Thursday, April 6, and Thursday, April 13, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Incidentally, that lost cocker spaniel that came to "Tell It to the Mayor!" was reunited with his master. A reminder: a license tag on the dog's collar provides for quick identification. Our lost friend's collar had no tag.

Buy a Broom

Brooms and other items made by the blind will be sold Saturday, April 15, by members of the Princeton Lions Club on a door-to-door basis between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Paul A. Ashton is chairman of the annual sale, which includes not only brooms, but mops, rakes, door mats and ironing board covers. Proceeds will be used for various community projects sponsored by the Lion's Welfare Fund Committee.

Captains for the sale are Werren Froelich, Merrill Zinder, Martin Reef, Nelson Thompson, J. Van Skillman, Murray Ahelson, Edwin Toussaint and George Habeeb.

FIRST OF THE SEASON — but not enough. Bill MacMillan, Tiger third baseman, scores the first run of the 1961 season on new Princeton diamond near Palmer Stadium. However, Massachusetts rallied to pin 4-2 defeat on the home team.

TIGERS HAVE PROBLEMS

Ball Team Has Weaknesses. A combination of too many errors on Friday and too much rain and cold weather on Saturday got Princeton's baseball season off to an inauspicious start last weekend. The Tigers gave the opener to the University of Massachusetts and the Weather Man took the decision in the contest that was scheduled for Saturday with the University of Maine.

Princeton had been outside for only three or four days prior to its opener, but the opposing Massachusetts nine had even less regular practice to its credit. As the ball game progressed, it was Princeton which was guilty of more misplays than the visitors, and that made the difference in the 4-2 final.

Phillips Pitches Well. Wally Phillips, a lefthander with good control who is in his third year on the varsity, hurled well enough to win with better support. He allowed only three hits and struck out ten in the seven innings he worked. Two of the three runs he yielded were unearned, giving the New England nine the edge. Lee Hegner pitched the final two rounds and was tagged for the victors' final run.

The four Princeton errors were all charged to the infield, presumably a bright spot in the 1961 picture. Twice, sophomore Don Fudge threw wide to home and each time a run crossed the plate.

The Tigers did all their scoring in the third. With two away and Jack Whitehouse on second as the result of a fielder's choice and a steal, Bill MacMillan doubled off the center fielder's glove, scoring Whitehouse. Olin West, a good pinch-hitter last season who is now playing right field and hitting in the clean-up slot, singled off the base umpire and MacMillan came home.

The visitors tied the score in the fifth when the only two walks Phillips gave combined with a single to get him in hot water. With the bases loaded, MacMillan threw out one runner on a force play at second.

The relay to first was late, however, and when Fudge failed to throw home in time, two runs crossed the plate. Errors by MacMillan on a bad throw to first and another wild peg home charged to Fudge gave the victors the tie-breaking tally in the sixth.

The Orange and Black was held to three singles, falling into a familiar habit of making more errors than it did hits. With the pitching staff thin and the hitting a question mark, a tight defense this year is essential to ability to top the tell-tale .500 mark.

The annual meeting with Rutgers at New Brunswick is on tap Friday, following a mid-week contest here with Seton Hall. Amherst's touring nine will end its southern trip here Saturday afternoon at 2.

The new field east of Palmer Saidum provides a highly-satisfactory setting for the transplanted Tigers. Among the improvements on which the Department of Athletics is working are installation of permanent stands and control of the juvenile set, which does everything imaginable to distract the spectators while paying little attention to the proceedings.

LACROSSE TEAM LOSES

To Mayland, 10-5. An early lead vanished Saturday as Princeton's lacrosse team dropped a 10-5 decision on muddy Poe Field to the University of Maryland. The Tigers will travel to Baltimore Saturday to face perennially-strong Johns Hopkins.

The Orange and Black jumped out in front in the first period, fell back to a 3-3 tie before the round ended and then moved ahead once more on a shot by Tuck Henry at 1:32 of the second quarter. Thereafter, it was a downhill trail as the visitors gradually took charge.

Maryland rallied to earn a 6-4 advantage at the intermission and then dominated the second half. The Terps scored four times in the last two periods while holding Princeton to a lone tally.

As usual, the Tigers play the roughest part of their schedule before going into Ivy competition. Army and Navy are both on tap before defense of the Ivy crown begins here on April 29 against Dartmouth.

RCA TAKES TITLE

In Industrial League. A convincing 49-36 victory over the 3 B's gave RCA the 1961 championship in the Industrial Basketball League.

Joe Burns of RCA paced both teams with 15 points, while teammate Bill Ehnot contributed 13. Ray Cevera of the losers was also in double figures with 11.

The 3 B's finished second in the final standings by virtue of a close, 43-42 decision over the YMCA quintet. ORC took third place by trimming RCA Astro, 46-36.

The latter contest was featured by the shooting of Ray Tomassi, who hit for 28 points on the strength of eight field goals and a dozen free throws. Fred Moroney of the victors chipped in with 14, while Charlie Connell paced RCA Astro with 15.

BOWLING NOTES

"A" Loop Tied. Shelton Movers No. 1 captured three games to tie winless Yeoman's at 52 points each in the "A" League last week to highlight Princeton bowling action. Grover Lumber was in third place with 38 points. In other bowling, Nassau Del held a comfortable seven-game lead over the Reformers in the Industrial loop, and Prince Laundro (52) was one game ahead of Sportsmen No. 2 in the "B" League.

MAAD topped the Faculty League by a game and a half over Physics (103) and four games over third-place "C" Operations (96). In the Women's League, Craft Cleaners (74) was well out in front of Applegate Floral Shop (60) and the Hits and Misses (56). And Decker's Dairy (70) led Princeton Motor Lodge by three and a half games in the Women's Industrial loop.

Barbara Denser's 240 game was the highest individual ladies score for the week. Other notable games included Marilyn Lowe, 211; Dot Stoneker, 187; Eleanor Perrine and Betty Toto, 185 each; and Florence Bathie, 180, also in the Women's Industrial loop; and Rachel Harris, 192; Marg Bloom, 188; Diana Fugili, 185; and Helen Tamesi, 14, in the Women's League. DEAR TRAVELEX,

Considering the fact that Princeton, New Jersey is a place that a great many people travel to, I'd like to talk about a peculiarity of the eating habits of young Princetonians.

Now let's take peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. A national staple of growing children's sandwiches. Princeton children are independent thinkers. Now for instance, if you have three children ages 4 to 12 and each brings a friend home for lunch, they all want peanut butter and jelly sandwiches BUT—one wants butter only on the peanut butter side, one wants butter on both sides, another says lots of peanut butter and just a little jelly because it squeezes out and gets on my shirt — one wants it cut in half, somebody else wants it in four pieces and another one wants it all in one piece — some even want mayonnaise on the bread instead of butter!

It is, therefore, obvious that even within our neighborhood there are many different cultures!

This is why we love Princeton!

This is why we love our neighbors!

This is why we love our children!

This is why we love to travel!

Cordially,

NANCY

Tiger Mile Relay Team

The already-frigid fans at Princeton's opening baseball game last Friday were talking before the first pitch of warmer weather and of Tiger teams that had gone south for spring vacation.

Ken Fairman, Director of Athletics who had on more outer clothing than he would have worn to a hockey game in Baker Rink, reported that the relay team had run a 3:13.1 mile in Florida. With the exception of Bill Stryker, Director of Sports Information, no one else had heard of the record-shattering performance.

Track at Princeton is the poor man's sport, without a field house and accordingly with only three or four home meets a year. In winter, the Tigers occasionally use Lavino Field House in Lawrenceville, but material is thin and the sport draws little attention. No one can remember when Princeton last beat Harvard or Yale in the track, indoors or out.

Accordingly, track buffs around here are virtually non-existent and appreciation for a 3.13.1 mile relay is largely lacking. It is, however, a tremendous performance, chopping as it did almost a full four seconds off the previous Princeton mark.

The Tigers gained a modicum of attention when they won the Heptagonal Mile Relay in Cornell's Barton Hall —where 6,000 fans annually watch this indoor event. Next stop was Madison Square Garden, where the IC4-A title came Princeton's way for the first time in many years.

It was on a basis of this victory that Coach Pete Morgan's quartet was invited to the Florida Relays in Gainesville. Following the time trials, the five-man final consisted of the Tigers and four colleges able to work outdoors in the deep south: Florida State, Alabama, Auburn and The Citadel.

Forrest Walpole opened with a 49.3 quarter; Whit Azoy shaved a second off this effort; John Gardner matched Walpole's time, and Captain Dick Edmunds contributed a sizzling 46.2 anchor leg. That adds up to a splendid 3:13.1 and adds fuel to the hope that one day a field house and improved manpower will put one of the appealing spectator sports squarely in the public eye.

SKI AREA A SUCCESS

Big Snows Helped. The big snows that tangled traffic this winter turned out to be a big boon for the new ski area operated by the Mercer County Recreation Department. Freeholder Richard J. Coffee has reported that the ski area's first year of operation was a "tremendous success."

The ski area is located at Belle Mountain on Valley Road in Hopewell Township. It was in operation 54 days this Wihter, and was used by approximately 6,800 skiers. The ski tow operated 21 days with Fred Morelli, local skiing expert, in attendance. In addition, a clinic for skiers was held on Lincoln's Birthday by Willy Keh and Mietek Wnuk.

Freeholder Coffee said that success of the ski area has led the Recreation Department to plan additional improvements at the site for next winter. He expressed thanks for the cooperation of the Trenton Ski Club, which was in charge of the Ski Patrol, and for the assistance given by Hopewell Township officials, particularly Police Chief Malcolm Joiner and his staff, who directed traffic and parking.

THE PIRATES AND THE ORIOLES: The advent of spring means the advent of another baseball season. Two candidates for a starting position on Princeton High School's nine, Don Truesdell (left) and Ron Decker, both pick Pittsburgh and Baltimore to meet in the 1961 World Series. For other pre-season predictions on who will win the pennants, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: What two teams do you think will meet in the World Series next fall and what teams will complete the first division in each league?

Where asked: Around town.

Don Truesdell, 98 Grover Avenue, PHS junior: Pittsburgh and Baltimore. Baltimore is coming up pretty well. If all those rookies they have jell again like they did last year, they ought to win. I don't think anybody will touch Pittsburgh this year. They should take it by seven games again. Behind them I'll pick the Braves and Dodgers, with the Cards to finish fourth. In the American League, it'll probably be the Yanks; Chicago, third, and Detroit, fourth.

Ron Decker, 198 Moore Street, PHS junior: Pittsburgh and Baltimore. I think Pittsburgh has an all around team. Of course, their greates asset, I think, is their pitching. I pick Baltimore because of their pitching, too. They have a young pitching staff which gained valuable experience last year. They also have some good-hitting infielders. After Pittsburgh, Milwaukee; then probably the Cards and Los Angeles. In the American League, the Yankees, White Sox, and Minneapolis.

Joseph Minor, U.S. Route 1, Penns Neck: I think Pittsburgh and the Yankees will repeat. I think Pittsburgh has the hitters and the pitchers. I mean with guys like Roy Face and Bob Friend, how can they lose? For hitters they have Mazeroski, Clemente and Dick Stuart. I'm only going by last year's statistics, but they are there in the record books. The Yanks have a new manager and they still have the long ball hitters, guys like Yogi Berra, Mickey Mantle and Roger Marris who can break your back with one clout. They have good pitchers, guys like Whitey Ford. They may do it again. I don't like the Yankees, but in key games, they're murder. Let's face it; they've got the players and the money behind them. After Pittsburgh I'd pick Milwaukee and the Cardinals — the Cards might even win the pennant. Behind the Yankees, I think will come the White Sox, then look for Baltimore and Cleveland.

Charles Sailliez, 89 Jefferson Road, liquor store proprietor: I think the Yanks will win again because they've got the sluggers. I'm not too sure about the National League. I'd like to see Milwaukee win it. That is a good baseball town. The fans there are loyal. It's too early for me to guess any of the other standings.

Robert Chibharo, Princeton Junction, PHS senior: I'll say the Yankees in the American League. They are my favorite team. They have the power. You can't beat that lineup of Mantle, Berra, Skowron and Maris. I don't think Pittsburgh will win again in the National. I think Milwaukee will beat them out and the Dodgers will come in third. I think Baltimore will be right up there again behind the Yanks in the American League, and then Chicago.

Chester Czeslowski, 40 Penn Lyle Road, Princeton Junction, salesman: Yankees and Milwaukee. The Yanks have the power. Their pitching will probably be a little weaker this year, but their power will offset that. I can't see why Milwaukee lost last year. They have a lot of power, too, and I think they'll take it this year. Behind them should come the Dodgers, the Pirates and St. Louis, who might be the big sleeper in the National League this year. Baltimore should come in second and the White Sox third.

Greg Stett, 21 Madison Avenue, Franklin Park, PHS junior: Of course, I'm an old Yankee fan so I'll say the Yanks and Pirates will win again. The Pirates are showing up pretty well in spring training this year and from what I know they haven't lost any of their players from last year. Last year I was about to give up on the Yanks but Mantle seems to have found himself and I don't think the possible loss of Duren will hurt them very much, either. I think the White Sox and Baltimore will follow the Yanks. In the National League, it should be close between the Giants and the Braves for second place. And then maybe the Cubs will follow behind. I think it will be an Ernie Banks year.

Frank Brown, Cranbury, truck driver: Yankees and St. Louis. St. Louis is a real sleeper. Give them a couple of breaks and they'll go all the way. They got a tough break when Larry Jackson got his jaw broken, but with young McDaniel pitching and Boyer on third, they're going to be rough this year. I've been a Yankee fan all my life and I think they'll win again. When the chips are down, the Yankees always win. I pick the Giants second and Milwaukee could be third. Baltimore and Chicago behind the Yanks.

Harold Pepiot, Cherry Valley Road, PHS junior: White Sox and Pirates. I think the White Sox are a good team. They lost out last year because their pitchers didn't come through. They have good hitters like Sievers, Minoso and Al Smith who almost won the batting championship. The Pirates won last year and the Yankees couldn't stop them in the series. And if they can't stop them, I don't see any other team stopping them. The Yankees should have won. They got 56 runs in seven games and still lost. Milwaulea should be runner up to Pittsburgh. It's kind of hard to say who'll be third: probably Los Angeles followed by San Francisco. In the American League, I pick Baltimore, Yankees and Minnesota to round out the first division.

BUILDING TO RISE

On Witherspoon St. Construction of a one-story brick office building with a colonial facade is scheduled to begin the middle of April, it was announced by Mel Alderman, co-owner of the Alderman Service Agency of 42 Witherspoon Street, who is financing the new building. It will be ready for occupancy before September 1.

Located on the corner of Witherspoon and Jackson Streets, the building will contain approximately 3000 square feet of space that will be divided into two units. The Alderman Agency will occupy the one unit. The other has already been rented to a Princeton firm, Mr. Alderman said.

Included in the plans is a provision for a private parking yard on the premises that will accommodate 15 cars. Mr. Alderman also revealed that the building will be located in one of the lot's corners so that it will not conflict with any street the Borough may wish to build in the area.

The Alderman Agency has been located in Princeton for 34 years. Twenty of those have been on Witherspoon Street, the last ten in its present location on the corner of Witherspoon and Hulfish. The agency engages in all types of insurance, real estate and accounting.

Artistic Hairdressers, located next door to Alderman at 38 Witherspoon, will expand its facilities to include the vacated space created when the agency moves.

NEW SITE SOUGHT

By Nassau Savings & Loan. Nassau Savings & Loan Association, currently located at 178 Nassau Street, is considering buying the property at 18 Vandeventer Street, corner of Park Place, as a site for a new office building. This was disclosed at Tuesday's meeting of the Princeton Borough Planning Board by Walter B. Foster, Jr., who said that negotiations were underway for the association to take an option on the property until October 31.

Mr. Foster brought the matter before the Planning Board because the site is in an area which is now zoned for residences and which might become a business zone if the proposed Master Plan were adopted. He explained that the directors of Nassau Savings and Loan wanted to know whether the Planning Board expected to adopt the Master Plan before October 31 or whether the association should apply for a variance from the present zoning ordinance.

Martin L. Beck, chairman of the Planning Board, replied that while he hoped that a decision on the Master Plan would be reached before October 31, any action on the issue at this time would have to be taken through spot zoning. Mr. Foster said later that he expected the association would apply to the Borough Zoning Board for a variance.

The proposed office building was described by Mr. Foster as being of Colonial design, set far enough back from the property lines to allow for a grass area and shrubbery. He said the association's directors had not yet decided whether to build a one-story building, just for Nassau Savings and Loan, or a two-story building with office space on the second floor.

Site Is Well-Known. One of Princeton's older houses, known as the Brady house, is currently located on the 19 Vandeventer Street site, having been moved there from a previous location on Nassau Street. The property is well-known for the gnarled old catalina tree in the front yard. The house is vacant at the present time.

TAKE MY BLOOD: John Ordway, assistant manager of the Nassau Inn, gives a pint of blood in the Palmer Room while Miss Dina Baldassari, nurse at Princeton Hospital, assists. Mr. Ordway chose the Palmer Room so that members of the staff at the Inn could watch the process and then volunteer to be blood donors themselves. Another employee of the Nassau Inn recently received 16 pints of whole blood at Princeton Hospital and Mr. Ordway decided to dramatize the need for blood by serving as a "public donor." HANKS IS SECRETARY

Of Industrial Reactor. Jerald S. Hanks of Lawrenceville Road, Pennington, has been named secretary of Industrial Reactor Laboratories, Inc., Plainsboro. Mr. Hanks will hold this new post in addition to his present position as treasurer.

The appointment of Dr. James Hillier of 8 Autumn Hill Road as a member of the board of directors of IRL has also been announced. Dr. Hillier, who is vice president of RCA Laboratories, was named to the board as a representative of RCA, one of the 10 industrial concerns which jointly own Industrial Reactor Laboratories.

Mr. Hanks has been associated with IRL since shortly after its establishment in 1956. He is also an instructor in the evening school at Temple University, Philadelphia. Active in community affairs, he is a director of Princeton Rotary Club, chairman of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross, and senior warden of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Pennington.

EDITOR NAMED

At Van Nostrand. Mrs. Elaine Wetterau, 43 Southern Way, has been appointed to the position of associate editor at D. Van Nostrand Company, Inc., 120 Alexander Street.

Before joining the Van Nostrand staff, Mrs. Wetterau was editor of College Board Program Publications for Educational Testing Service. She has also served as assistant editor of the Princeton Series on High Speed Aerodynamics and Jet Propulsion at Princeton.

PAGING HOME OWNERS

Telephone Intercom Offered. A new home intercommunications system that operates through the telephona system is now available to home owners from the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. With the new system, the telephone can be used for a variety of communication purposes, from answering the door to paging by voice throughout the house.

This combines with specially - designed telephones and small, wall-mounted speakers to provide a complete intercom system. A weatherproofed combination speaker-microphone is located outside the house beside the door.

Called the "Home Interphone," the new system has a lifetime guarantee. Any necessary repairs and maintenance will be provided by New Jersey Bell at no cost. Basic charge for adding the Home Interphone to e home now equipped with three telephones is $6 a month after a $25 installation charge.

CLAIMS MAY BE MADE

For Extended Compensation. Claims for temporary extended unemployment compensation benefits will be accepted starting Monday by the Division of Employment Security of the state Department of Labor and Industry. Monday is the first working day after the effective date of the legislation.

The temporary program known as TEC, provides for payment of additional benefits to people who have exhausted their regular unemployment insurance rights since June 30, 1960, and are now unemployed.

The Division of Employment Security, at 28 West State Street, Trenton, will be open evenings for the first three weeks of the new program and will take claims under the temporary program only at night.

Unemployed workers who have exhausted their unemployment insurance benefits and who wish to file a temporary claim, are urged to report on the same day of the week they have been reporting on regular claims. They should bring with them papers they have concerning their previous claims particularly the identification card.

Question Of The Week

Lewis Ferrara, 76 Nassau Street, barber: "Chicago and Pittsburgh. I think Pittsburgh will repeat because they have a young team. Murtaugh is a good manager and he's young, too. Chicago should take it on the strength of their consistent players. Says Mike Minos and Fox. Next should be the Yankees, Cleveland and Baltimore, fourth. In the National, the Dodgers, Cincinnati and then the Giants.

Theodore Skaar, Washington Avenue, Griggstown, PHS junior: "I think White Sox. The Pirates get the little hits that count and win ball games. They're not like the Yanks. They won last year and I think they have the desire to keep up their streak. The White Sox should take it because they have a young team and they have a good pitching staff. I pick the Cardinals, Dodgers and Giants to finish in back of the Pirates. The Yankees should come in second, but I couldn't guess who elsa will finish up there.

The Princeton team compiled a total score of 17 points in the meet, in which records were broken in almost one-third of the events. It was the Princetonians' first year of competition in the event.

Jack Walstad, Graham, Poinsett, and Howard placed sixth in the 200-yard freestyle relays.

Assisting as meet officials from the Princeton team were Mr. and Mrs. George Good, Richard Eckhart, Kenneth Dean and Carl Poinsett.

COURSE IS EXCELLENT

At Mountain View. Freeholder Richard J. Coffee and Lawrence Ferrera, golf pro at Mountain View, Mercer County's public golf course, have termed the course excellent after an examination of the grounds. The greens appear to be ideal and the fairways are in perfect shape, they said.

The course, in its best spring condition in its brief history, will remain open from daybreak until dark. Rates remain unchanged. They are $1.50 weekdays; $2.50 Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. The course will open on Saturday.

The schedule of tournaments and dates for the special municipality free play days will be made public in the near future. Meetings to reorganize the various golf leagues will be scheduled in the next two weeks.

THE START OF IT ALL

Civil War Order on Display. The general military order which triggered the Confederate attack on Fort Sumter, first battle of the American Civil War, will be on display at Princeton University's Firestone Library during the month of April. It is believed to be the only extant copy of this general order.

The document is one of a series of pre-Civil War documents which will be shown in the exhibit. Also included will be an 1856 speech on sectionalism by Abraham Lincoln, written in his own hand and autographed.

All items to be displayed are part of the Scheide Library, a private collection of rare books and manuscripts housed in a special room at the Princeton Library. The collection belongs to William H. Scheide of 133 Library Place, a Princeton graduate and a well-known philanthropist. Bach expert, and bibliophile. His Gutenberg Bible, one of three existing copies still in private hands, was exhibited at the Firestone Library last November.

The general order which led to the firing on Fort Sumter was acquired by Mr. Scheide through Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, the noted collector, who had procured it in 1934 at an auction of the manuscript collection of Dr. Roderick Terry of Newport, R.I. The document cost $540 in 1934 and is believed to be considerably more valuable today.

Story Behind the Order. A hand-written order of 210 words, the general order was issued from Brigadier General P. G. T. Beauregard's headquarters on April 11, 1861, one day prior to the firing on Fort Sumter. Copies were distributed to commanders of the various gun emplacements surrounding the fort and were signed by D. R. Jones, assistant adjutant general. The Scheide copy was sent to Brigadier General James Simons, whose name appears at the bottom.

Confederate troops under General Beauregard had taken possession of the batteries on the South Carolina mainland after they were deserted by Major Robert Anderson, who removed his token 70-man force to Fort Sumter, on an island in Charleston Harbor. Fearing that Fort Sumter would be reinforced with provisions from a federal fleet, General Beauregard issued the general order.

The first four instructions in the general order proved unnecessary, as the fleet did not attempt to reach Sumter. The fifth instruction, however, set the stage for the two-day battle. Confederate aides sent to ask Anderson to evacuate his forces were told that he might withdraw in four days if supplies were not received before that time.

Believing that this answer failed to fulfill Beauregard's demands, the aides rowed to Fort Johnson and ordered the firing of the signal shell mentioned in the fifth general order. Firing began at 4:30 e.m. on April 12 and Anderson surrendered on April 13.

Text of Order. The full text of the general order, known as General Orders No. 14, follows:

Gen. Orders
No. 14

Three lights to be kept lighted all night will be placed outside of Sumter in the Channel. Two will be placed inside at points already designated to light up the SW faces of the fort; the latter will be lighted the moment the lookout steamers give the alarm.

The lookout steamers (light craft) will be stationed outside the channel lights and on approach of the enemy will fire the alarm and make their escape.

II. The channel batteries will be kept in readiness to open fire on anything passing the lights without proper signals.

III. The enfilade battery, floating battery, Sullivan's Island Dahlgren, Stevens's and Point batteries and the Rifle gun will be ready to open on that portion of Sumter at which a landing would be effected should the enemy succeed in running in.

IV. All the mortar batteries will open on Sumter the moment the alarm is given outside. This alarm will be a blue light and rocket from the guard boats on opening of the channel batteries.

V. In case no alarm is given the Mortar batteries will open at any rate on the firing of a shell from Fort Johnson. The firing is to be continued until further orders according to instructions heretofore communicated to commandants of Batteries.
